

PIMA AIR & SPACE MUSEUM

TITAN MISSILE MUSEUM

Press Release

June 8, 2020

To whom it may concern:

The Pima Air & Space Museum is reopening to the public on Monday, June 15th, 2020. Summer hours will be 9am to 3pm with the last admission a 1pm. The following are some of the precautions being taken to provide the safest visitor experience possible:

- Staff will wear masks
- Plexiglas shields are installed at cash registers
- Directed flow in the admission will be implemented
- Visitors will be strongly encouraged to wear masks and use hand sanitizer stations
- Enhanced regular cleaning schedule with some restroom facilities closed
- Upgrading as many fixtures as possible in the restroom to "hands free" configuration
- Additional hand sanitizer stations around the grounds
- Food service will be available on a limited basis

Pima Air & Space Museum recognizes that the situation regarding public safety during the COVID-19 pandemic is fluid and will continue to address precautionary measures. These details should act as a guideline for the museum's precautions, not a comprehensive list. In addition to the extra sanitation measures, the museum's grounds offer an appealing activity during this time due to the available size and open environment both indoors and out that permit social distancing without affecting your experience as a guest:

- There are 250,000 sq ft of indoor displays and exhibits in 6 hangars
- There are 80 acres of outdoor display area
- It is the slow season, so visitor numbers are not expected to be significant

The Arizona Aerospace Foundation (AAF) that operates the Pima Air & Space Museum would like to thank you for your support during this challenging time. As an entirely self-supporting 501 (c) 3 charitable enterprise, the loss of visitation during the peak season closure has had a huge negative affect on the museum's income. If you appreciate the preservation of aviation history and are able, please consider making a donation here, <https://pimaair.org/get-involved/donate/>. The AAF still recommends that you make the personal decision on how to ensure you and your families' or guests' safety but will gladly welcome you back should you decide to visit.

The Titan Missile Museum in Sahuarita will remain closed until further notice.
